BOYLE LOOMED.

Kansas, this great industry has come under absolute state control. That's what the people want. That represents reality.

"You have given the people today the spectacle of a courageous convention, a novelty in Kansas. You have taken the people by the throat and forced it to death, a thing that has been an abomination to man and God. No other convention could have done this as you did it."

"We don't need so much law as we need the courage to enforce the law we have. What we want to do is by the courageous demonstration of manly conduct to bring before the public the fact that the American people will stand no more foolishness. This is the mission of a reform political conception."

"I would not be just if I did not pay a tribute to those gallant and progressive men who are wedded to the cause of right, the progressive Democracy that met in convention at Atchison. We should forget all prejudices and every Populist should go back to his home and grasp the hand of every true Democrat. They are divided from us by name only and united in principles."

"Neither should we forget that other wing, the Free Silver Republicans. They are Republicans only in the memory of glorious achievements, and are Americans today supporting the principles which we are advocating."

"Personally, I want to say that I would go as far as possible in aiding the national administration to carry this war to a successful termination. This is not a partisan war, but a war of the American people against oppression. Therefore we should vie with our Republican brethren in patriotism, not forgetting in the meanwhile to keep them close to the issues."

DAVID OVERMYER TALKS.

Says, After This, the Populists Must Support the Democratic Ticket.

Atchison, June 17.—The Democratic convention adjourned after nominating the Populist state ticket, including Major A. M. Harvey.

A conference committee appointed by the Democratic state convention to confer with the Populists with a view to the consummation of fusion between the two parties, met here for Topeka there was a feeling among the delegates that the Populists would be liberal enough to grant at least three places on the state ticket in return for the support of the Democrats of this state, and when the committee returned and made its report, the Populists labored all night with the Populist committee and the candidates upon the Populist ticket, and the best that was offered them was the place of recorder of the state. There was considerable surprise and some dissatisfaction.

Some of the delegates would have been willing to renounce the Populist ticket, and to support the Democrats, but they insisted that the only thing to do would be to nominate Leedy, Boyle, Strickland and Allen and fill the rest of the ticket with Democrats. Half an hour before the adjournment of the convention sentiment was altogether changed, and the delegates began the discussion of available men for the vacancies.

Just before the convening of the convention, however, some of the more conservative of the party started the movement to reject the Populists' offer to a single place and nominate the straight Populist ticket.

After the delegates thought this over they became enthusiastic with it, and at the time the convention was adjourned they voted to accept the offer to order the movement had gained such support that it became apparent that it would carry, and when the roll was called there was almost a unanimous vote in its favor. This is the history of the convention, but there is a good deal that can be read between the lines.

The vote of the emergency meeting of the Populist candidates was 273 to 95.

David Overmyer says of the Democratic convention:

"The outcome of the convention, as far as lieutenant governor is concerned, is somewhat of a surprise. The nomination of Major Harvey had not been contemplated, the Populists by anyone until half an hour before the convening of the afternoon session."

"The development of the proposition suddenly after the return of the conference committee from Topeka. During the absence of the committee it was decided to accept a single place upon the ticket. This was worked for all sides adverse to nominating a solitary Democrat upon the ticket. The truth is that the anti-fusion element was not so strong as it was supposed to be, and that the Populists were not so much divided as they were supposed to be."

"It was at this time that someone mentioned Harvey's nomination. The fusionists desiring to end the agony of a single place, and to get a man who would immediately fall in with their thought, and it was clear that the gentlemen who had started the idea of not nominating a single Democrat were in a minority. It seemed that the Populists were of that somewhat celebrated man who yoked himself up with the calf—the calf ran away with him."

"It may as well be understood now that from this time forth the Democratic party will hold its conventions without reference to the time and place of our own conventions on earth."

"We have now given our Populist brethren an example of disinterestedness, and a lesson in virtue which will henceforth call upon them to imitate. We belong to the only organization that is the national organization, that has sufficient power and patriotism to make headway against the destructive forces which are fostered by the Republican party, the deadly enemy of free institutions and popular government."

"Our Populist friends have had time enough to become acquainted with us, and to ascertain whether or not we are fair minded men, and to get over their unreasonable prejudice against the Democratic name. They will not join us now they never will join us, and if that be the case the sooner we know it the better. Any reasonable and patriotic Democrat will support this ticket, but at the same time give notice to our Populist friends that hereafter we will expect them to support ours."

ANNIE DIGGS IS GLAD

That the Populist Convention Suspended the Metropolitan Law.

Associate Justice Allen and the remainder of the state officers followed Attorney General Allen, who spoke for the Populists, and then a delegate from Clay county asked that Mrs. Annie L. Digs, who was on the Populist ticket, be allowed to speak at a moment the cry of "Mrs. Digs" was taken up, and amid tremendous applause Mrs. Digs made her way to the front of the stage and was introduced by Chairman Digs. She spoke for a few minutes, frequently interrupted by applause.

"The man you have nominated for the head of the state ticket was Hobson's choice," said she, "and Hobson's choice is just now a popular and a successful

one. I refer to John W. Leedy personally, because it has been bruited about that Governor Leedy and I have not been upon the most amiable terms. I want to say to you gentlemen of the convention that whatever difference there has been in the past between Governor Leedy and myself has been removed by your decision in suspending the metropolitan police law, and I will use every faculty that God has given me in working for the success of the Populist ticket in the coming campaign. (Cheers.)

Mrs. Digs also said that the action of the convention on the metropolitan police law, and the platform from under ex-Senator Peffer, as a candidate for governor on the Prohibition ticket.

NO BRITISH ALLIANCE.

Populists Object to Any European Entanglements.

Just before the adjournment of the Populist convention demonstration of manly conduct to bring before the public the fact that the American people will stand no more foolishness. This is the mission of a reform political conception."

"We are opposed in the crisis of our trouble with Spain to the talked of alliance with Great Britain. It is unnecessary, unpatriotic and un-American. It is a policy of compromise and entanglement in this country in the complications of international politics and the imposition upon the American people of a system of international systems. We declare our ability to maintain our flag on land and sea, against any persons which dare come against us, without the aid or co-operation of any other nation on earth."

The following resolution, omitted from the platform, was also adopted: "We declare our absolute adherence to the Populist national platform adopted at St. Louis in 1892."

IN MOB'S HANDS.

Five Negroes Taken From an Alabama Jail.

Montgomery, Ala., June 17.—There were five negroes taken from the jail at Wetumpka last night. The troops got there too late to prevent the jail from being broken open. However, they followed the mob into the country and the telephone messages this morning show the troops are hunting for the prisoners. It is reported that the mob has them hidden out. It is also stated that a sixth negro has been implicated and arrested. The mob is trying to find the money that was stolen and buried before lynching the prisoners. Leading citizens, it is also stated are interceding with the mob to prevent lynching and to secure the return of the prisoners to the jail.

On Tuesday night, seven miles north of Wetumpka, William Carden and his wife, an old couple, and William Carley, also an old man, were murdered and their houses burned to conceal the crime. Carden hoarded his money, and the party were murdered to secure it. Sol Jackson, Lewis Spier and another negro were arrested for the crime. A crowd of 500 men from the neighborhood of the crime gathered at the jail at Wetumpka to mob the prisoners. While they were in jail two of the murderers, Jackson and Spier, confessed and told where they buried the money, $1,200. The mob broke into the jail but were unable to get into the inner cage where the prisoners were held. The sheriff graphed the governor for troops, and about ninety of the former members of the military companies here left on a special train. A few minutes later word was received that the mob succeeded in getting blacksmith tools, broke open the cage and had secured the prisoners. There will be a mob, it was stated, was to take them to the scene of the crime and there hang them.

WICHITA SENSATION.

Body of a Little Girl Found Floating in the River.

Wichita, June 17.—A sensation was created by the finding of the body of a little girl 7 or 8 weeks old in the Arkansas river south of the city.

F. M. Kirby has a pasture field extending down to the river, and he saw the body of the child floating near the west bank of the river. He waded in and recovered the body and left it in the shed, only on behalf of the Populist ticket and not to assist in fusion. In sending out the call for the convention the chairman and secretary must make clear for fusion, and the fact that this compromise. The effort to force Chairman Butler to resign proved futile and he will continue to act until the next national convention in 1900.

Cracow, Austrian, Galicia, June 17.—The situation in the district of Gorlice in connection with the anti-semitic excesses, is the most serious character. Hundreds of men from other districts have reinforced the petroleum workers and peasants of Gorlice and are attacking, plundering and burning public buildings. They have attacked the towns of Biecz and Gorlice, which had to be defended by troops.

HOBSON MAY CHOOSE.

He Will Be Asked to Call for What He Wants.

Washington, June 17.—The president has not yet decided what measure of reward shall be meted out to Hobson for his brave achievement. The men he led have been taken care of. Secretary Long attended to that himself, because it was a matter entirely within his prerogative and they have been made warrant officers, the ideal of a sailor's ambition.

Hobson is to be advanced, that is settled. The department called upon Sampson for a recommendation in this case, but in advance of its arrival, had about decided to advance Hobson ten numbers, which would have placed him just below Construction Lieutenant, when a doubt arose as to whether the young man would not prefer a transfer to the line. His relatives were consulted, among them his uncle, Representative Pearson of North Carolina, and it was decided to allow Hobson to make his choice as between the line and staff. Steps accordingly, have been taken to transfer him to the line.

POPULIST PROGRAMME

Adopted by the Conference Held at Omaha.

Omaha, June 17.—Shortly after 5 o'clock this morning the conference of the national Populist committee adjourned without day. The final outcome was a practical rout of the fusionists. The conference was held in the middle-of-the-road crowd, under the leadership of Milton Park, although the liberal wing made some concessions. The last conference held last night was on the admission of J. R. Sovereign as a proxy delegate from Iowa. This was finally dropped and the conference adjourned to work on the main report of the conference committee. This was modified in some of its main points and adopted.

The fight on Riddle was continued until the committee assembled for organization. He had been left off the committee when it was made up, and the convention and some of those who were fighting him thought that meant that he would be turned down but the committee elected him member at large and his selection as chairman followed. S. H. Baxter of Pittsburg received two votes. The members from the Third congressional district were instructed for him.

W. T. Tipton was re-elected secretary and S. H. Clark of Lawrence was elected treasurer.

The Peaceful Blockade.

Key West, June 17.—An auxiliary gunboat which arrived here this morning from off Havana reports that all is quiet along the blockade line. Small gunboats of the enemy still make efforts to lure some of the American ships within range of the batteries, but barring an occasional exchange of shots, which do no damage on either side, nothing of consequence has lately occurred.

Chairman Taylor Riddle of the Populist state central committee routed his enemies in the organization of the state central committee and was elected state chairman with practically no opposition in the committee.
